

Greg Bolton – Biography

Greg Bolton
Client Partner – Corporate Finance

T: 01642 221 331

Greg Bolton comes from an electronic engineering background and worked in a UK PLC for a number of years in Research and Development and Implementation. Greg then ran his own engineering business for 5 years. After selling his share of the business Greg returned to university and did an MBA at Durham Business School and moved into Corporate Finance work immediately after.

Greg has had a satisfying and varied career ranging from the more esoteric research aspects of his early years and the excitement of operating as part of a large organisation, through the steep learning curve of running his own business and latterly into Corporate Finance.

Greg helps people through the full lifecycle of a business - set up, develop and ultimately exit from their business'. He also helps with business acquisitions/disposals/mergers, financial forecasting and restructuring, business improvement and reorganisation and raising finance from high street lenders, venture capitalists and business angels.

Outside of work, Greg is an outdoor enthusiast, trying to indulge in as many outdoor activities as possible and has been a keen climber, mountain biker and walker. He has been less successful, though equally keen at, canoeing and caving! Greg also spends a lot of time running in a vain attempt to keep fit enough to stay ahead of his children.
